

'Screaming and Yelling'... Then Acquittal

NEW YORK (AP) — A jury that started out "screaming and yelling across the table" has acquitted former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and one-time Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans of all charges in their criminal conspiracy case.

The nine men and three women came to unanimous agreement Sunday afternoon after 26 hours of deliberation that the former cabinet colleagues were innocent of conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury.

Both were accused of trying to block a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of financier Robert L. Vesco, in return for Vesco's secret $200,000 cash contribution to President Nixon's re-election campaign.

Referring to Vesco and his aides, Juror Clarence Brown said after the verdict: "They wanted to get something, but I don't think that Stans and Mitchell ever fell for it."

The jury's forewoman, Sybil Kucharski, said, "We were off in little groups screaming and yelling across the table" when the deliberations began. She said the jury was split even on the conspiracy count, so it turned to the six separate perjury counts against Mitchell and Stans.

Acquittal of Mitchell and Stans puts credibility of John W. Dean III in question. Story on page 18.

"After looking through all the perjury charges, the rest was easy," Miss Kucharski said. "We figured there couldn't be any conspiracy if there was no perjury."

The verdict brought a smile to the face of the normally un-demonstrative Mitchell. But it brought no legal surcease. He faces trial in Washington at a still unset date on almost identical charges in connection with the cover-up of the Watergate break-in.

Leon Jaworski, the Watergate special prosecutor, still is studying part of the Nixon campaign financing operation which Stans headed.

"Our faith was resting with a very, very fine jury," Mitchell told a news conference in the U.S. Courthouse. "They were a cross section of the people and they were representative of America."

"If there is one place I am firmly convinced you can get justice, it's from the American people. I have great faith in America and that's why love this country."

Stans was shedding tears of relief by the time the lengthy 15-count verdict had been read. "I've been reborn," he told a newsman. "I was innocent all along, but it's good to have it confirmed."

In Washington, Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald Warren said of President Nixon: "The President was very pleased for the two men and for their families."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, said he sees no connection between the verdict and future Watergate cases. "Each case stands on its own bottom," he said.

Vesco, who was indicted with Stans and Mitchell and lives in exile in Costa Rica, called the verdict the "first fair verdict I've heard in a long time."

The chief prosecutor, Asst. U.S. Atty. John R. Wing, was deeply disappointed. Asked how he felt about the verdict, he replied:

"Rotten! If we could have gotten Vesco back it would have been different. It was absolutely not a waste. When there's evidence that people committed a crime, those crimes should be investigated and prosecuted."

Vesco fled the country in the midst of an SEC investigation of his corporate activities and all efforts to bring him back failed.

Mitchell and Stans were charged with conspiring to obstruct an SEC fraud investigation of Vesco, who has corporate interests in such diverse locales as Hong Kong, Beirut and the Bahamas.

It was an influence peddling deal, the government said. The prosecution called it a "quid pro quo"—something for something—in return for Vesco's $200,000. The cash was collected by Stans, who raised $60 million for Nixon's 1972 campaign.

Mitchell, 60, a man of dry humor, was the law and order symbol of Nixon's first administration. He represented administration firmness against antiwar demonstrators during the late '60s and early '70s and pushed for a number of law and order measures.

Mitchell now is estranged from his wife, Martha. Asked at his post-trial news conference whether he had talked to Martha since his acquittal, Mitchell asked: "Who?"

Stans, a graying, well-tailored man, reached his 66th birthday midway in the 10-week trial. A certifier, public accountant, he was deputy postmaster and later budget director during the Eisenhower administration.

Nixon's Tape Proposal On National TV Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon plans to take his case against impeachment to the public with a prime time nationally televised address tonight, sources said.

They said they expected Nixon to make the broadcast at 9 p.m. EDT on all television and radio networks. But they said the time was subject to change.

The address will be keyed to Nixon's response to a House Judiciary Committee subpoena for 42 presidential conversations with one-time administration officials. The subpoena must be answered by 10 a.m. Tuesday.

The White House said Nixon reached his decision Sunday and was considering a nationwide broadcast to disclose it. The White House refused to confirm news reports that Nixon had decided on the broadcast.

As the week began, two top Republicans said it would be inadequate for Nixon to turn over transcripts but not subpoenaed tape recordings to the House Judiciary Committee. That view was taken by former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., in separate television interviews Sunday.

Nixon spent much of the weekend at his Camp David, Md., retreat, working on his response. He had scheduled his return for today but flew back unexpectedly by helicopter Sunday night.

Sources at the White House began putting out word Friday that the President might make a television address Monday night. The subject is certain to be the escalating demands for material from White House files.

Related story on page 18.

The committee has subpoenaed tapes of 42 presidential conversations and a response is due by 10 a.m. EDT Tuesday.

In addition, a subpoena requested by special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski that demanded tapes and records of 64 presidential conversations calls for a response Thursday.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said that "we have every intention" of meeting the Tuesday deadline for an answer to the House committee subpoena.

Richardson said supplying the transcripts of the tapes would not meet the order of the committee's subpoena. He also said that "the case is close," about whether there was sufficient evidence to prove Nixon had committed an indictable offense.

Richardson resigned Oct. 10 rather than fire then-special prosecutor Archibald Cox. He was interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press." Asked why he felt the possibility of an indictable offense against Nixon was "close," Richardson said:

"What would bother me is more days. Originally the deadline was last Thursday."

In granting the delay, many committee members, including Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said they hoped the request for more time to review the subpoenaed material was an indication that Nixon planned to supply everything called for in the subpoena.

But the committee appeared unanimous in its concern that the White House response might be edited transcripts. Even the President's strongest supporters seemed agreed that unless the committee has a role in verifying that all pertinent material is included in the transcripts, they would not be acceptable.

The White House response to the subpoena also will have to be guided in part by Nixon's request to a committee request White House request for five for still more tapes.

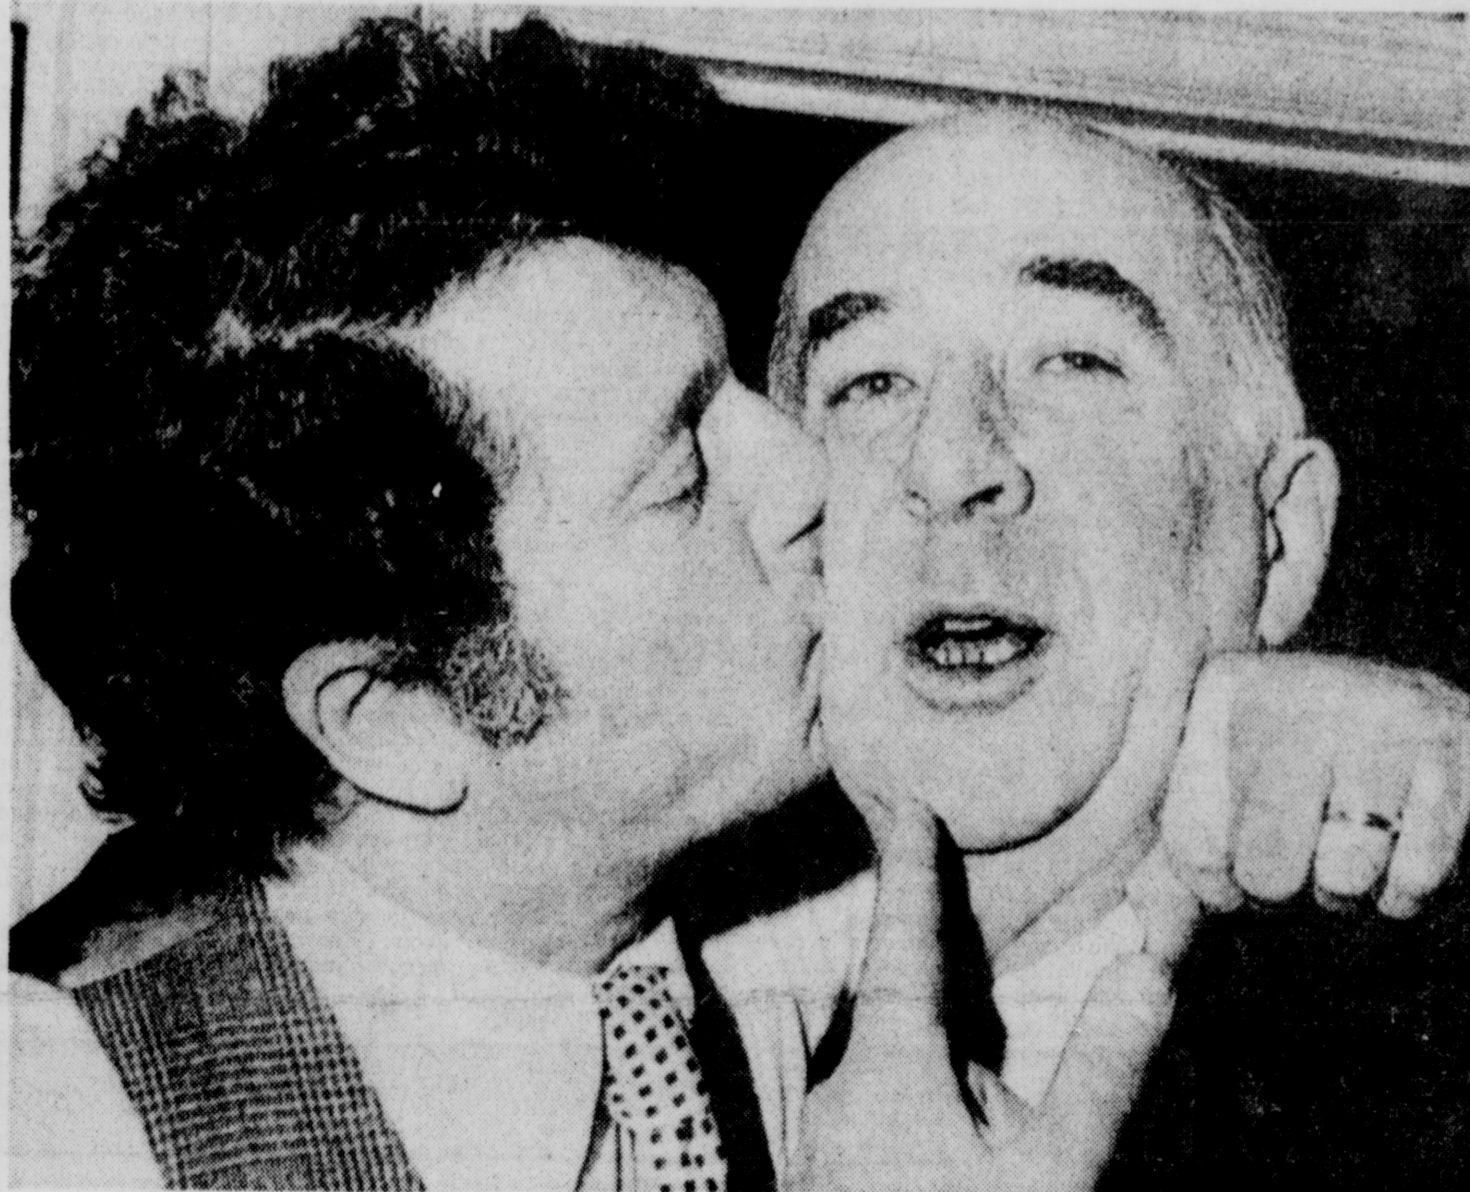

GENEVA (UPI) — U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger met Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko for a second time today to try to win Soviet support—or at least hands off—for American efforts to bring about troop disengagement between Israel and Syria.

The two men met in an L-shaped room on the penthouse floor of the Intercontinental Hotel at 10 a.m. (5 a.m. EDT) and were later lunching before Kissinger flies to Algiers this evening en route to his fifth mission in the Middle East since the October war.

"What do you want me to do?" Gromyko asked Kissinger as they stood smiling for photographers and cameramen under the lights in the lobby of the hotel when Kissinger went down to meet him, flanked by security men.

Spectators lining the balcony applauded them but were kept away by barriers lining the way to the elevators.

American officials said the two main subjects would be Kissinger's Middle East mission and a new agreement on Kissinger arrived Sunday night and drove to the Soviet Mission around the corner from the hotel to meet Gromyko for their first meeting which lasted almost two hours. American spokesmen described it as "friendly and constructive."

The secretary was trying to work out a troop disengagement agreement for the Golan Heights, where Syrian October war. It was not known, however, whether Israel would give up the Golan Heights, which led to the separation of captured during the 197 Middle East War and now the site of 17 Jewish settlements.

Syria was reported demanding the Israelis give up the Golan Heights' former administrative capital of Quneitra, now a ghost town, and promise the pullback would be only the first step toward a total withdrawal from the heights.

Diplomatic sources also have reported disagreement on Cairo Tuesday for two days whether there should be a United Nations buffer zone between the two sides or only U.N. observers along the truce lines. The Soviet Union has been mightily worried and annoyed by shuttle between the capitals.

Winslow Questions New High School

James W. Winslow, candidate for Kingston City Schools Consolidated Board of Education, said today that "overcrowding in Kingston High School is a fact that cannot be denied." However, the candidate said that for the sake of local education, he could not completely support the proposed $5 million facility as the solution to the problem.

Winslow cited his reluctance in supporting the construction of a new high school because of two basic failures on the part of the local school board. First, Winslow said that according to every written record that he has had access to, there is not sufficient evidence to support the plan contemplated. Secondly, he said that any justification that there might be, even the simple fact that the Broadway building is terribly inadequate, has not been communicated to the public in an effort to educate us as to the need for more facilities.

In researching the high school problem, Winslow said that a bleak picture was painted by local school administrators. The State Education Department was already unhappy with the number of young people (3700 in three schools) within the block bounded by Broadway, West O'Reilly Street, Mary's Avenue and Andrew Street. Winslow also pointed out that for three consecutive years, local proposals to SED for additions to the present high school were turned down because they would have added even more to that number.

Winslow said the most recent in-depth study was done in 1964 by a Professor Walling from Princeton. The needs of the district were laid out for a 10-year period and that study has been the basis of all educational building through the present school year.

Winslow said that he has discovered that the next 10 years of building is guided, thus far, by only a simple school population projection graph drawn up by a local administrator. He said that this graph shows that by 1984 kindergarten enrollments will be half of what they were in 1964 (down from 1,200 to 600). The peak year in problems of the black elderly, William Hutton, executive director of the National Council of Senior Citizens, will discuss "Legislation and Action, a National Viewpoint."

Dinnerstein said that William Brady, deputy secretary of state will address the delegates and State Sen. John E. Flynn will report on the progress of the State Senate Committee on Aging.

Winslow said that the addition of 400 students to the high school population by 1981 does not warrant a $5 million facility, especially when the board expects to raise the local monies needed from the operating budget over the next 10 years in order to circumvent public approval through referendum. Winslow asked: "How can they come up with $500,000 (interest included) for each of 10 years and still maintain, let alone raise, the quality of education?" He said that this would be robbing Peter to pay Paul in keeping money from other facets of the budget.

Linderman Ave. Land Ownership Issue Detailed

KINGSTON
A 13-acre parcel of land on the north side of Linderman Avenue for which a rezoning petition has been submitted is not owned by John R. Shults of Kingston as reported in Sunday's Freeman.

Records at the city assessor's office show Shults sold the land to Geometric Construction Realty of 13 Manor Drive, Poughkeepsie, on Jan. 14, 1974. Records in the city clerk's office show the petition for rezoning was submitted by Yigal A. Bash, identified as president of Leland Development Corp. of the same Poughkeepsie address. Bash is described as "the purchaser" of the property in the petition to the city clerk. He was not available for comment.

The public hearing will be held by the Laws and Rules Committee of the Common Council at 7:30 p.m. in Council Chambers on Thursday. Also on tap are hearings involving an 11-acre parcel of land off Hurley Avenue and a number of recommendations from the Planning Board on revisions in the amendatory procedures of the zoning code itself.

Artillery, Tank Fire Continue on Mt. Hermon Slopes

By United Press International
Israeli and Syrian troops exchanged artillery and tank fire today on the slopes of Mt. Hermon. The Damascus government vowed to keep on fighting despite U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's new peace mission.

A Damascus military communiqué said Israeli and Syrian forces battled for control of Mt. Hermon in the 49th consecutive day of fighting along the Golan Heights.

Press reports in Beirut said the Syrians have beefed up troop strength on the Golan Heights to 13,000 men for an assault on the strategic 9,232-foot mountain overlooking Israel, Syria and Lebanon.

An Israeli military source said today the reported Syrian buildup might just be a psychological move to coincide with Kissinger's latest Middle East trip.

The military source in Tel Aviv said it was hard to tell whether the Syrian shelling of Mt. Hermon was "meant to soften up Israeli positions prior to an assault."

"They have enough forces now if they want to do something, but it all could be a psychological move because of Kissinger," he said. "What they're saying is, 'We could use force if we don't get what we want.'"

Syria also claimed to have downed an Israeli warplane in a dogfight over the battle zone Sunday, but Israel said all its aircraft returned to their bases safely.

Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel

Halim Khaddam told Beirut's Al-Diyar magazine that Kissinger's "presence in the Middle East or absence from it has no connection with the fighting."

"Visits, regardless of their nature, cannot extenuate the fighting," the magazine quoted him as saying. "We are fighting for declared and well-known reasons and the fighting will top only when its reasons are ended."

Other Beirut press reports said Gromyko would probably fly to Damascus Tuesday, two days ahead of Kissinger, who was scheduled to arrive in the Syrian capital Thursday after stops in Algiers, Egypt and Jerusalem.

In other Middle East developments: — Israeli Prime Minister-designate Yitzhak Rabin, a dove favoring concessions to the Arabs in peace talks, sought the support of two minor parties today in efforts to put together a new government to succeed Premier olda Meir's caretaker cabinet.

— Libya, heatedly denying engineering an abortive attempt to overthrow President Anwar Sadat, urged the Cairo-based Arab League to investigate an April 18 attack allegedly aimed at ousting the Egyptian leader.

Portuguese Rebels to Continue Fight

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Rebel leaders in Portugal's African territories have spurned the new junta's promise of limited self-government and say they will fight on for independence.

"The war will continue if the junta's intention is to perpetuate the colonial system through new means," it added.

The Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola, one of the two main guerrilla groups in that territory, said it was prepared to negotiate "concerning the complete independence of our country." But it rejected the proposal by the leader of the junta, Gen. Antonio de Spinoia, for a federation of Portugal with her African colonies.

"In such a federation, Portugal would always have the last word," it said. "The power of the state can only be in the hands of Angolans."

The chain of events that ended in the military coup last week began with a book by Spinoia in which he said Portugal never could win a military victory in its 13-year-old war against the African rebels. But he reportedly told a meeting of politicians and newspaper editors Saturday that the African territories must be granted self-determination, not independence.

"Self-determination is the right of every people freely to choose its own destiny," Spinoia said. "But for this decision, a people needs to be conscious of its choice and needs to possess a certain cultural level. Otherwise, third parties would determine this destiny."

"Self-determination must express the will of the people, and immediate independence would mean the acceptance of someone else's will."

This was considered a reference to claims of the ousted regime that Communist countries foster and support the African rebel movements.

Newspaper reports of the meeting said Spinoia also declared:

All Portuguese will be given freedom of political activity except extremists; "the junta cannot consent to the establishment of authoritarian regimes, whether from the right or from the left."

The transformation of political life must be orderly and gradual; "any abdication of authority would mean the risk of having to apply measures contrary to the junta movement's own principles."

"It is natural for the various political groups to want to move rapidly, but... acceleration could be disastrous."

Meanwhile, an ecstatic crowd of 5,000 in Lisbon welcomed the first political exile home Sunday—Socialist Mario Soares, who returned from four years in Paris to one of the first such demonstrations permitted in years and to a warm embrace from Spinoia.

"The army has given people freedom of expression," Soares told the crowd at the railroad station. "But it is not the army but the workers and the people who must finish the job. It is not the time for division. People who want democracy must unite."

"Death to political police. People's courts to kill the murderers," the crowd yelled back, nearly turning the welcome for Soares into a mob scene. Soldiers locked hands around him while others pushed demonstrators aside with their weapons.

Spinoia has pledged free elections within a year, and Soares, 49, is expected to play a major role in future politics.

Throughout Lisbon, the heady celebration of the coup mingled with cries for vengeance. The army continued its hunt for an estimated 2,000 members of the hated secret police believed still at large.

The Lisbon press, muzzled by strict censorship since 1928, appeared to be feeling its way toward the full freedom promised by Spinoia. A senior editor at the Diario de Lisboa said circulation had tripled in just three days. Newspaper kiosks were sold out minutes after newspapers went on sale.

Mayor Alioto to Discuss New Zebra Development

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mayor Joseph Alioto temporarily has left the campaign trail to confer with aides about a new, undisclosed development in the Zebra street shootings.

Bill O'Brien, Alioto's press secretary, said the mayor could have a major announcement late today concerning the random shootings that have left 12 people dead and six wounded in the last five months.

The mayor abruptly canceled a series of weekend appearances in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor and returned to San Francisco before dawn Saturday. He said his return here "is Zebra related," but refused to elaborate.

Amsor ecet het er ytl tge3f After the most recent slaying April 16, police began stopping and searching all young blacks who resembled a composite description. Last Thursday, after more than 600 persons had been stopped, a federal judge halted the tactic, saying it was unconstitutional and violated the civil rights of those detained. The city has filed a notice of appeal.

In each of the 18 attacks which have taken place since last Nov. 25, the black gunman chose a white victim apparently at random and fired at near point-blank range with a .32-caliber automatic. All of the shootings have occurred between about 7 p.m. and 10 p.m.

The killings were given the name "Zebra" after the name for the radio frequency police have used in the case.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks opened broadly higher in light trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

Shortly after the opening, the Dow Jones industrial average had climbed 0.31 to 834.95. Issues gaining in price outnumbered losers by more than two-to-one, of the 379 stocks crossing the tape.

Watergate news has introduced a new—and possibly favorable—variable in the market picture, at least for the short run. Aided in part by news President Nixon is about to turn over information to the House Judiciary Committee that may help him in his fight to stay in office, the stock market Friday staged a late recovery after an erratic morning of trading. The Dow rose 6.96 to 834.64.

Nader To Speak At UCCC

STONE RIDGE
The man who has vowed he will never eat another hot dog, owns no car, and who spends by his own estimate no more than $5,306 a year—consumer advocate Ralph Nader—will speak at Ulster County Community College Thursday, May 2.

Nader will talk on "The Politics of Energy" beginning at 1:40 p.m. at the Stone Ridge campus in the Senate Gymnasium. There will be an admission charge to the public.

Nader, who has a long record of consumer advocacy, became nationally famous in 1965 with the publication of "Unsafe at Any Speed," a devastating attack on dangers in American automobiles.

Three years later he established the Center for Study of Responsive Law, and set to work a group of young professional—more familiarly known as "Nader's Raiders"—to research public interest issues.

Tax Exemption Hearing Slated

KINGSTON
A public hearing on a local law to provide for a partial tax exemption of real property owned by certain persons with limited income who are 65 years of age or over, raising such limitations from $5,000 to $6,000, will be held Wednesday, May 1 at 7 p.m. at the County Office Building.

According to Frank Fabbie, clerk of the legislature, the purpose of the law is to grant a partial exemption from taxation to the extent of 50 percent of assessed valuation of real property which is owned by persons with limited income who are 65 years of age or over.

Real property owned by such persons will be exempt from 50 percent of county taxes.

The law, which would take effect Jan. 1, 1975, would also provide that the income of the owner or the combined income of the owners of the property for the income tax year immediately preceding the date of making application for exemption, must not exceed $6,000.

Exam Date Is Listed

KINGSTON
The Municipal Civil Service Commission is offering open competitive examinations for the positions of housing code inspector with the Kingston Housing Code Commission and stock clerk with the City Laboratory.

Two vacancies currently exist for housing code inspectors, a job that pays $6,300 a year. Leonard Finch and Edward Ahl now hold the positions on a probationary basis. Last date for filing is May 22. The exam will be held on June 22.

There is one vacancy for the post of stock clerk in the City Laboratory. The job has a salary range of from $5,500 to $6,875 per year. Last date for filing is May 1. The exam will be held on June 1.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 29, 1974

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — Postmaster General E. T. Klassen soaked the taxpayers $48,091.10 last Christmas for 350 fancy stamp albums, which he gave away as Christmas presents to friends and officials.
This is another example of the extravagance which has driven up the price the public must pay for mailing letters. In a series of columns, we have been reporting on mis-spending and mismanagement in the Postal Service.

The procurement director, Conrad Trahern, was so startled over the order for 350 Christmas stamp albums that he began asking questions. This got back to Assistant Postmaster General Robert McCutcheon, who fired off a sharp memo to Trahern, demanding to know who was poking into Klassen's Christmas boondoggle. Inquiries had been made, wrote McCutcheon indignantly, about "some souvenir stamp albums prepared for the Postmaster General. Questions were asked as to how many were bought, what the costs were and what they were used for. Please advise as to why this inquiry was made and who was requesting the information... What was the information to be used for?" McCutcheon got back a straightforward reply, "I was the one who was asking the questions," wrote Trahern. "Since I am responsible for procurement, I have always made it my business to know what is going on in my organization. For the present time, the information is to be used for only my personal knowledge."

The details, thereafter, were suppressed by the postal brass. Nevertheless, we have obtained a complete breakdown of the $48,091.10 it cost the taxpayers for Klassen's

Christmas presents.
Footnote: The Postal Service did not respond to our request for comment. Trahern, who has left the Postal Service, refused to comment on postal matters.
SPARKMAN'S STYLE: Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., a Southern gentleman who likes to travel in style, saved 18 colleagues and their wives the indignity of flying home from Paris after Easter in a cramped and unadorned plane.
The senator from Alabama telephoned the White House from Paris and demanded a more suitable plane to return the nine senators, 10 representatives, their spouses and purchases.
At first, the White House told Sparkman all the plush planes were in use. But someone close to the President, possibly remembering that all those legislators in Paris soon will be voting on impeachment, had afterthoughts.
Sparkman got a return call from the White House, offering him one of Vice President Gerald Ford's planes. Ford was vacationing in Palm Springs, it was explained, and wouldn't be needing the plane over the weekend.
The sleek jet made a special flight to Paris — at the taxpayers' expense, of course — to pick up the congressional travelers.
Sparkman was pleased with himself. "It was the same plane," he boasted afterward, "that Lyndon Johnson used when he was President."

The congressional delegation traveled to Europe ostensibly to attend the Inter-Parliamentary Union meeting in Bucharest. Their wives went along, Sparkman explained to us, "as a matter of protocol." All their travel and hotel bills were picked up, therefore, by the taxpayers.
An examination of their itinerary suggests, however, that the group spent more time Eastering in Athens and shopping in Paris than attending inter-parliamentary meetings.
They bought so much loot, say our sources, that they couldn't load it all aboard the small plane, which originally had been dispatched to haul them home from Paris. But Sparkman indignantly denied to us that he demanded a larger plane to accommodate the wives' Paris purchases.
The smaller plane, he insisted, was simply inadequate. It "didn't even have windows," he sputtered.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Former Attorney General John Mitchell, who used to be consulted daily by President Nixon, has been abandoned by the White House in his hour of tribulation. But Mitchell, surprisingly, is not at all bitter. He has assured skeptical friends that the President is really a warm, compassionate man... The Russian literary great, Aleksander Solzhenitsyn, was distressed over U.S. press reaction to his open letter to Soviet leaders last fall. Some U.S. critics saw pro-authoritarian sentiments in his unabashed love of his native Russia. "I was very surprised," wrote Solzhenitsyn in a private letter to two U.S. congressmen, "to find that this (letter) was incorrectly and superficially interpreted by your country's press"...

After we exposed the hazardous, ramshackle conditions of mobile homes provided by the federal government for victims of Hurricane Agnes, an effort was made to upgrade inspections. A secret report of the New York Public Interest Research Group, however, charges the effort has not been successful... J. C. Herge, the bag man for $25,000 to $50,000 from a milk cooperative to the 1972 N.Y. campaign, has been picked as special assistant to Interior Secretary Rogers Morton. Although the contribution was patently illegal, the man who hired Herge, Interior Solicitor Kent Frizell, insists Herge's actions in accepting the cash were "in every way legal, moral and otherwise acceptable."

Tough Takeoff

Inside Report

Duping the Hard Core

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke of California, campaigning for governor by inciting the hard-core Republican faithful against special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, in fact has carried on a calculated deception of the party faithful since mid-February.
Jaworski's prosecutors first warned Reinecke on Feb. 11 that he would be indicted in the ITT scandal. That warning came long before the March 8 filing deadline for governor. But Reinecke hid the news even from his own key supporters and entered the race for governor, thereby compounding Republican miseries in California.

The Republican hard core until now has believed Ed Reinecke just as it did Spiro T. Agnew six months ago. Although under federal indictment for perjury, he has convinced Republican true believers that Jaworski is conducting an anti-GOP "witchhunt." This week's Field poll, incredibly, still gives Reinecke a 4-percentage-point lead over his rival for the nomination, highly respected State Controller Houston Flournoy. Once again, the combination of unprincipled politicians and glib followers with a persecution complex could prove lethal for the Republican party.

Reinecke was an obscure conservative Congressman in 1969 when Gov. Ronald Reagan selected him to be his lieutenant governor and heir apparent. Although early polls showed Reinecke leading all other Republicans for governor in 1974, his future was clouded by Watergate. Did he commit perjury in 1972 by telling a Senate committee he had not discussed with then Atty. Gen. John Mitchell an International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. pledge to finance the Republican national convention until after settlement of ITT antitrust suits? If he were indicted, advisors warned Reinecke, he should not run for governor for the party's sake.

By early 1974, Reinecke was pressing Jaworski to accelerate his case and inform him whether he would be indicted or not. On Feb. 11, the telephone call came from Jaworski's men in Washington: the prosecutors had developed a strong case against Reinecke, and he surely would be indicted.

Keeping that critical political information to himself, Reinecke went to Washington on a highly publicized mission to supposedly ask Jaworski to either clear him or indict him. Although he had been warned Feb. 11 he would be indicted, Reinecke told a reporter in Washington Feb. 13: "I feel more optimistic than ever that the decision will be speedy and that I will be cleared."

On Feb. 14 in Washington, Reinecke and his lawyers met with the prosecutors to dissuade them from seeking indictments. They failed. But Reinecke publicly gave the impression he was unable to get advance word one way or the other. Returning to California, Reinecke said he was "not concerned about his future" but was "worried about the timing" — that is, worried that Jaworski might wait too long before exonerating him.

Reinecke then sought a lie-detector test to establish his innocence before the March 8 filing deadline. Unable to get quick results, Reinecke filed for governor anyway on Feb. 26. Arrangements for a lie-detector test, finally administered by the FBI in Sacramento March 14, did delay an indictment and allow the March 8 filing deadline to slip by. Yet another week was lost when Reinecke's lawyers made a final private plea to the prosecutors not to indict him.

Thus, it was scarcely the shock Reinecke pretended when the grand jury indicted him on three counts of perjury April 3. The lie-detector results remain secret. Reinecke's declaration that it was inconclusive because he is "a very reactive person" has only raised doubts.

Faced by federal indictment, Reinecke is copying

Agnew by trying to amass Republican anger against insidious federal prosecutors. "I intend to fight Mr. Jaworski because this is a purge of the entire Republican party, not just one man," Reinecke told the Republican state convention last weekend. Such lines have been drawing cheers on the campaign circuit all month.

Efforts to finish Reinecke's trial before the June 4 primary may fail, particularly if Reinecke fights to switch the trial from Washington to California. With the case undetermined, it is conceivable that Reinecke could sneak through to the nomination and certain defeat in November. That is less likely with the new Field poll showing the tide running against Reinecke. Still, his presence in the primary muddies Republican waters and creates unnecessary problems for Flournoy.

In a preposterously audacious attempt to become governor while facing federal criminal charges, Reinecke has joined Agnew and even the Nixon White House in a distressing phenomenon. All these exemplars of law-and-order have accused federal prosecutors of seeking unfairly to put political rivals in federal prison. While costing further disrespect for the nation's system of justice, these tactics so far have brought only further woe to the Republican party.

The Democrats' Challenge

Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia is right, of course: the Democrats could win the coming battle and lose the war. If they make sensational gains in next fall's congressional elections, as is generally expected, they will then find themselves saddled with responsibility for taking constructive action on energy, the economy and other problems. And if they don't come through, the Democratic party will suffer public opprobrium in 1976.

This is not necessarily a pessimistic appraisal of the Democrats' chances two years hence. It also embodies a challenge. For as Governor Carter said the other day in Chicago, the party will be hurt "unless the Democrats prepare to speak with a more cohesive voice and more effective leadership than we have shown before." This is plainly a call to rally 'round and do the necessary, instead of going off in 40 directions as Democrats have been wont to do the past few years.

Carter was chosen last year by Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss to be the party's 1974 campaign chairman. From this vantage point he now claims to perceive that the party has "a very clear shot to get a two-thirds majority in the House." That would, as he notes, make the House "veto-proof."

Whether or not this proves to be over-optimistic, there can be little doubt that with Watergate and the economic sag to talk about the Democrats will make hay in November. The crucial question will be how they follow through on whatever congressional gains they achieve.

Clearing the VA Air

Donald E. Johnson's announced intention of resigning after five years as chief of the Veterans Administration helps to clear the air. Assessment of what has caused the agency's evident troubles, and consideration of remedies, can now proceed without the encumbrance of emotional and factional debate over Johnson's performance in office.

This is not meant to imply that the present state of affairs in the VA should not be carefully studied with the idea of discovering what went wrong and making improvements. That is exactly what the situation requires.

Fortunately, the ill-conceived idea of allowing Johnson to preside over the survey of VA hospitals and clinics ordered by President Nixon has now been abandoned. It makes much better sense to have this study conducted under the direction of the agency's new chief medical director, Dr. John D. Chase. The change is one unqualified good outcome of the pressures directed at Johnson.

A Scent of Gernreich

It seems that Rudi Gernreich, the fashionable fashion designer whose claims to fame include offering a topless swimsuit for the ladies a few years back, is launching a scent. A scent bearing the puissant name, "Rudi Gernreich." One is stunned by the marvelous originality of it all.

This impression becomes simply overwhelming when one hears descriptions of the perfume itself. Gernreich speaks of it as "very honest and direct." It is, says he, "a non-feminine, non-masculine fragrance. It's an everybody fragrance." And that's not all: "The smell we came up with is animal-based, very sensuous and warm and rather heavy, I think."

Someone even called it "the fragrance of the future," but Gernreich reportedly expressed dismay at this and said he was "never consulted" about it. Still, it sounds like mighty impressive-smelling stuff, this "everybody fragrance." We can hardly wait for our first sniff.

A Visit to an Old House

We sold the house in Sea Bright 10 years ago. The family departed, looking back. The children didn't cry. They kept looking back.

She was not a great house. She seemed confused, with a lot of small gables on top. There was a long lawn in front with a chipped fountain halfway down. Petunias grew there, brave little flowers with colored petals coming up between flagstones to shudder against the brine of the sea.

Someone said the house was older than the hills behind her. The big beams in the cellar had wooden dowels and were held by leather thongs. She was old. A Swedish fisherman with big hands and old scars said she had been a carriage house.

There was a big, white house to the north. In the 1880s, the rich lived there and met the Mary Patton, an old side-wheeler trailing a sedate bridal train, coming down from New York to the Jersey coast. Matched grays and glistening leather rigs met the boat.

The rich sat on their three-sided porch and rocked. The men puffed dark cigars and talked business. The ladies played croquet on the back lawn in their long trailing gowns, with gossamer veils to hold their hats on. The summers were kind and the days were endless.

The village was really the second knuckle on the long finger of Sandy Hook. There was only 300 feet of dunes between the sea and the Shrewsbury River. The houses were like bony vertebrae on a long spine.

On the far side of the river were the abrupt hills of the Highlands. On top were the Twin-Lights, brown salt and pepper shakers. Old sailors said you could see that beam of light a hundred miles off.

There were marshes on the far side, too. Ringed mallards there their babies there. When I bought the old house, I built an office in the garage on the river, and you could hear the mother ducks in the spring.

They led their babies to the edge of the swift river like a locomotive followed by eight colored cabooses. I watched closely. Some babies rebelled. The mother swam a little, then quacked like two boards slapped together, and got out to push the baby in.

Tiny wings fluttered, squeaks were heard and the rebel found he could swim. Flushed with victory, he spread his wings and tried to run on top of the water.

The old house had weathered many storms. She was the only one of the strip with a deep concrete cellar. When the hurricanes came, she sat firm as the huge combers crashed green and white over the sea wall, and the wind rose steadily to a shriek and peeled shingles off the roof.

The river rose and slipped over the bulkhead. A 26-foot inboard came out of the mist, slipped over the bulkheads and sailed down the driveway toward the sea. The telephone wires flashed blue all night and lights went out.

The Coast Guard came in 10-wheel tracks to evacuate everybody. But Gayle and Kelly and Karen and Kathi said they'd stay. The old house had never failed them. We had built a big living room in the back with a curved bar and picture windows, and the river water came up, sneaking onto the cork floor.

The house exhausted the storm. The inside was nothing except that someone in the old days must have nailed one wall on top of another until they were 11 inches thick. The kitchen was ordinary. A skinny staircase led to small, scary bedrooms upstairs.

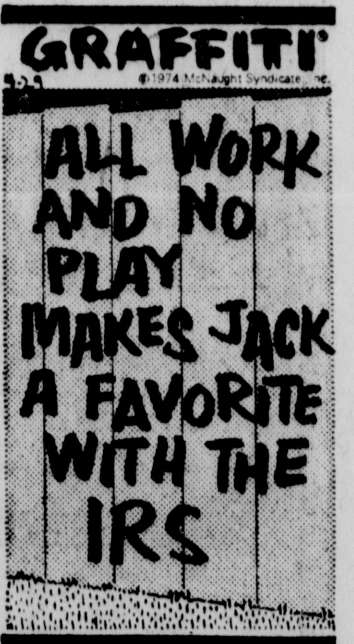

There, when the wind was quiet and moonlight staggered from the sea, the old house groaned. There would be a snap, like a match, and a sound of anguish. It may have been a form of rheumatism, but she was always ready for the next battle with the wind and the sea.

Gayle and Karen and Kathi grew up there. Now they are women and the old house is older, and far away. In January and February, those three-day northeasters plaster her with rain and spume flung white on the wind, and she glistens in the dark.

She knows all about us. In silence, she listened to little girls at play, heard the Spanish staccato of a typewriter, the laughter of friends at the bar and music. She also heard prayers at night, soft syllabifications that she would be safe and that we'd be safe.

Once a year, we go back. We seldom bother the owner. The car is parked in the driveway and we look at that ridiculous hat of gables, the worn wood of her sides, the swift river behind her. When we leave, no one speaks. Children may cry. Young ladies do not...

Talks Resume After Recess

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiations between the printers' union and the city's three major dailies will resume Tuesday after an extended weekend recess requested by mediator Theodore W. Kheel.

The talks, which were recessed Friday, had been scheduled to resume today. But Kheel said he wanted another day for both sides to reflect on the bargaining issues, including automation.

Concurrent with the negotiations is a work slowdown by members of New York Typographical Union No. 6 employed at the Daily News. The newspaper reported that it was unable to publish 20 pages of advertising in today's editions because of the slowdown, which began April 18.

Ten Charged After Greene Pistol Mishap

CAIRO
State police charged ten men Sunday with reckless endangerment after one of the men allegedly discharged a pistol which wounded a two-year-old girl.

Police said the men, ranging in age from 27 to 44, were reportedly drinking at the Hotel Walters in the Greene County community of Cairo Sunday night when a .25-caliber pistol was fired. The bullet went out a window and struck the young child, who was playing nearby, police said.

The little girl was luckily only superficially wounded, and was treated and released at Greene County Memorial Hospital. Police said they were unable to determine who was holding the pistol when it discharged, and thus arrested all ten men who were allegedly present.

Eight of those charged were from the New York City area; one was from California. The tenth man arrested was identified by police as Richard L. White, 31, of Cairo, the owner of the hotel. All are being held without bail pending further court action.

Police Hit Betting Jackpot; Break Up $189 Million Ring

NEW YORK (AP) — Police say they have broken up a $189 million gambling ring with the arrests of 31 persons in coordinated raids on "wire rooms" throughout the city.

"This was one of the largest gambling rings in recent years," a police spokesman said Sunday after teams of rackets agents raided 21 locations.

Authorities said the operation took bets on horse races and other sports events and grossed more than $18,000 daily, nearly one-fifth the $2.6 million in bets handled each day by the city's Off-Track Betting Corp. Sixteen of the locations were in Brooklyn, three in Queens and one each in the Bronx and Staten Island.

All of those arrested were linked by police to organized crime groups here. Eight of the suspects were identified as "known gamblers," or persons with at least two convictions for gambling violations.

They were charged with promoting gambling in the first degree and possession of gambling records. Each is a Class E felony carrying up to four years in prison upon conviction.

Battering rams and crowbars were used to enter five of the alleged gambling centers. However, police reported no resistance.

In addition to those arrested, at least 20 other persons found in the alleged gambling rooms were handed subpoenas for appearances before a grand jury investigating gambling.

The raids were the result of a 15-month investigation and were conducted by the Police Department's Organized Crime Control Bureau and by the Kings County District Attorney's office.

Police identified the "known gamblers" as: Nicholas Renna, 32; Carmine Montemarano, 47; Thomas Misuraco, 57; John Commarto, 40; John D'Arrigo, 34, and Harry Hirschbach, 67, and his wife, Sara, 65, all of Brooklyn; and Michael O'Grady, 39, of Queens.

Happiness Is...27th Annual Lions Exposition

Big Show Opens Tomorrow

By CARL GRAHAM

KINGSTON

"Happiness Is..."

That's the theme for the 27th annual Lions Club Exposition and Home Show at the State Armory on Manor Avenue from April 30 through May 4.

Happiness is... General Chairman Brian Smith announcing Friday that booths for the exposition are about sold out.

Happiness is... A good advance ticket sale, with a crowd of more than 20,000 anticipated. Lions Club members sold tickets at all major shopping areas Saturday to boost that total, and the public can still get in by purchasing tickets at the door.

Happiness is... The traditional opening night parade, which will kick off at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday from Academy Green. The parade, featuring 17 marching units and the Kingston Indians, Dams and merscot Highland Band, and the Saugerties High School Band, will move up Albany Avenue and turn left onto Manor Avenue. A U.S. Army helicopter will act as overhead escort for the parade and furnish a jumping platform for two skydivers who will bail out and land on the field beside the Armory when the parade units arrive there for opening ceremonies.

Happiness is... The people who show up every night from 7-10 p.m. for the Expo. They will be greeted by the usual varied exhibit of home products and community services. Smith reports that 150 booths have been reserved already. A few are left, but hurry.

Happiness is... The long list of community service organizations helped by proceeds of the annual Lions Club affair. Lions have given more than $260,000 to the community in the past 26 years.

Recipients include such organizations as the Kingston Little League and Babe Ruth League, the Ulster County Community College Foreign Study Program, Kingston Paid Firefighters, and the 16 organizations of the United Way.

Happiness is... The people who take advantage of the Lions Club health clinic, open to the general public on Wednesday and Thursday from 7:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. A special clinic will be held for senior citizens only on Wednesday, from 1:30-3:30 p.m. and marks the only exception to Expo's 7-9 p.m. hours. Tests will include glaucoma, diabetes, blood pressure, emphysema breathing tests and tuberculosis X-ray. All test results will be forwarded to private physicians for examination. Nurses from the Ulster County Department of Health will assist at the free clinic.

Happiness is... The Kingston and Benedictine Hospitals, which will emphasize "Get to know us before you need us" as the theme of their exhibit.

which notes National Hospital Week. The exhibit will be staffed nightly by hospital personnel who will distribute literature and answer questions.

Happiness is... The Mid-Hudson Library System, which will provide an exhibit of special services provided by the Kingston Area Library and the County Reference Center. Mrs. DeWitt Hasbrouck, chairman, said that in addition to film showings, items to be displayed include art prints, records, large print books, foreign language books, and cassette recordings, all part of the services of a modern library.

And happiness is the people who attend, knowing that the money cleared from their ticket purchases will be put to good use in the community through the hard work and generosity of the Kingston Lions Club.

Legislature Saves Major Issues for Last

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Senate is expected to begin debate today on restoration of the death penalty, one of the last major issues remaining before adjournment of the 1974 session of the state legislature.

Adjournment is officially scheduled for Tuesday afternoon, but no one expects it before Thursday at the earliest.

Other major issues remaining on the agenda include rent control, a $500 million program to bail out the financially troubled Consolidated Edison Co., changes in the laws governing campaign finance, and aid to higher education.

The death-penalty bill is designed to replace one struck down as unconstitutional last year by the state Court of Appeals. That law applied to the same categories of crimes, but left the imposition of the death penalty up to the discretion of a jury. The court, citing a U.S. Supreme Court decision on the death penalty, held that discretion left the death penalty open to arbitrary and discriminatory application.

The bill before the legislature attempts to avoid the discretion state and local policemen but mandatory, except in cases where the defendant was acting under "extreme emotional duress" or was aiding in a suicide.

The Con Ed bail-out plan, which Wilson sent to the legislature Saturday, is also expected to win relatively easy approval, despite opposition from some conservative upstate Republicans who view it as a state "giveaway" to New York City.

Under Wilson's bill, the state Power Authority would issue bonds and buy for about $500 million two Con Ed plants currently under construction—the third nuclear plant at Indian Point in Westchester County and the sixth oil-fired unit at Astoria, Queens.

That would provide Con Ed with an immediate infusion of cash, and also relieve it of the burden of raising another $300 million in capital to complete the plants. The Power Authority would complete the plants and operate them, selling their power to federal, state and city government agencies, the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, the Port Authority and similar entities.

Because of lower financing costs under the Power Authority's tax-exempt bonds, the cost of operating the two plants would be less than if the plants were to remain in Con Ed's hands.

Those savings, however, will accrue to the various government agencies which will buy the power, not to ordinary commercial and residential users.

But state officials contend that by putting Con Ed on a sound financial footing the plan will yield long-term savings for Con Ed's regular customers.

The legislation is drawn broadly enough to allow the Power Authority to buy other plants for the New York City region. But state officials say only the purchase of the two plants now under construction is contemplated, and that future purchases will depend upon Con Ed's financial status.

Wilson and Assembly Speaker Perry Duryea are deadlocked on changes in the campaign finance law, but both sides have pledged that some agreement will be reached before adjournment.

The Assembly has approved a Duryea-sponsored bill that would set a 50-cents-per-voter spending limit for candidates for state and local office. It also would limit the amount candidates could contribute to their own campaigns, and set a commission to enforce the pledged that some agreement campaign laws.

He Yearns to Live After 13 Long Years

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: How can a man come back to life at 52 after 13 years of life without life?

My wife died recently after a long illness, and I've been out of circulation for so long I don't know where to begin making a new life for myself.

I may sound cold and heartless, but now that she is gone, I feel a sense of freedom. You see, she left my bed 13 years ago and never showed me any sign of affection after that, so in my view our marriage ended then. (She thought a man over 40 didn't need a woman to sleep with.)

My ego has been ground down to a pulp publicly and privately more times than I can count. My only source of satisfaction is in knowing that I stuck with her until the bitter end without cheating on her once, although I often was tempted.

Now I am free to find a woman who can compensate for all that emptiness. Abby, I am so full of love, and so eager to give it to someone, I can hardly stand it.

Somewhere there must be a woman who is willing to take on a steady assignment like that. But where do I start looking? I need it now. Thirteen years is long enough. I ask only for one with stamina. Thanks.

GEORGE

DEAR GEORGE: Call your friends — married and single — and let them know you are interested in dating. You'll be swamped! Find out what your church and community have

BETA SIGMA PHI FOUNDER'S DAY — T. Robert Gallo, acting mayor of the City of Kingston, has designated Tuesday, April 30 as Beta Sigma Phi Founder's Day and urges all citizens of the community to give full consideration of the services rendered by Beta Sigma Phi. Founded 42 years ago, Beta Sigma Phi is an international organization for women who wish to enrich their lives through increased friendship, cultural appreciation, and service to their communities. There are now about 10,500 chapters throughout the world, three of which are in the Kingston area. The local chapters' service project for this year is aiding the Port Ewen Library, Association of Retarded Children; Corning Flood Relief Fund and Kidney Foundation. Representing the three chapters at the signing of the proclamation are (L-R) Mrs. Bruce Eymann, Gamma Chi member; Mrs. Robert Dunn, president, Xi Alpha Omega; and Mrs. Robert Boice, president, Eta Eta Chapter. to offer in the way of social programs. Get into volunteer work. (That's a good way to meet people with similar interests.) Get out and get going. Some lucky gal has a treat coming.

DEAR ABBY: There is a teacher at school who makes some of us girls sick. He pulls the hair out of his sideburns and eats it!

We would like to know why he does this, and what we can do to make him stop.

NAUSEATED

DEAR NAUSEATED: I

don't know about humans, but monkeys have been known to pull the hair out of their heads and eat it when they are depressed and frustrated. I think your teacher needs help.

DEAR ABBY: In response to an inquiry last summer from a woman who wanted to marry a married man whose wife had disappeared years before, you advised: "Contact the Salvation Army. Box 3856; L.L. Col. Pauline Eberhart, San Francisco, Cal. They have had remarkable success in locating missing persons."

That gave me an idea. I had been searching through the usual channels for a brother who had been missing for 47 years. No success. So I thought: "Why not give it a chance?"

I wrote to the Salvation Army per your suggestion, giving them the necessary information, and they went to work.

Last week they reported that they had been successful, and they forwarded me a photostatic copy of a letter they had received from my lost brother. And in the same mail I also received a letter from him. What a marvelous surprise!

Abby, how can I thank you?

L. T. IN SEATTLE

DEAR L.T.: Don't thank me. Thank those wonderful people at the Salvation Army who do so much for so many in every corner of the world. (Hear Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 9:07 a.m. WKNY-1490)

Kingston Chapter of Hadassah's Help Save An Eye Day May 1st

Kingston chapter of Hadassah will sponsor Help Save An Eye Day on May 1, rain date May 2nd. During the day Hadassah volunteers will be at various locations throughout Kingston to collect funds for the Hadassah Medical Organization for use in further research in the prevention and cure of various eye diseases.

Hadassah was founded in 1912 by Henrietta Szold. From its beginning, Hadassah offered women involvement in a great adventure: programs of healing, research or education, shared experiences needing compassion and courage.

Hadassah Hospital is more important than ever as a major center for reconstructive surgery, rehabilitation of war casualties, and occupational therapy, psychiatric and social services for soldiers and their families.

The Department of Ophthalmology is one of the largest and busiest in the hospital. It is notable for its activities in the periphery of Israel, outside Jerusalem, and in the continent of Africa. Its activities include both medical treatment and a considerable amount of surgery.

The Hadassah Hospital Ophthalmology Department contains more than 10 subspecialty clinics — Glaucoma, External Eye Diseases, Plastic Surgery including transplantation, and Neuro-Ophthalmology, which worked unceasingly to save the sight of soldiers whose wounds were often unique. Doctors were helped in their efforts by a number of new instruments and techniques.

Any Hadassah member wishing to contribute to Hadassah Medical Organization to help Save an Eye, or has some time to volunteer on May 1st, may contact Mrs. Leon Crystal or Mrs. Morton Lurie, both of Kingston.

Gilbert: Stitch in Time

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There is an angry looking cut at the corner of Rod Gilbert's right eye. When it heals it will be just another scar on the hem-stitched face that identifies Gilbert as a veteran of 12 National Hockey League seasons.

Gilbert has picked up more than just stitches in all that time. He's also gained some experience — hockey savvy — and that commodity helped him score the winning goal for the New York Rangers in their 2-1 overtime decision over Philadelphia Sunday.

The victory left this best-of-seven Stanley Cup semifinal tied at 2-2 with Game 5 scheduled for Tuesday night in Philadelphia.

The fascinating thing about Gilbert's game-winning was that he wasn't even supposed to be on the ice when he scored it. He had finished his shift with linemates Jean Ratelle and Ted Irvine, and they had already left the ice — replaced by Walt Tkaczuk and Steve Vickers.

"It was the end of the shift and I was going to get off," said Gilbert. "But I was too far away from the bench."

That was one reason for staying. The other was Gilbert's instinct, something you build up after 12 years in this game.

"When I saw the puck go in their end, I thought, maybe we had a good chance," he said.

So, instead of the bench, Gilbert headed for the net. He knows the territory well. As the highest scorer in Ranger history, he's been there before. He also knows you have to pay for every inch of ice in that area.

Philadelphia defenseman Joe Watson, who had scored the Flyers' goal, was collecting the price from Gilbert.

"He was doing his job ... riding me out of the play," said Gilbert. But Tkaczuk and Vickers were doing their jobs too, and in a flash, they had relayed the puck to Gilbert. "It was just hanging in front on the short side," said Gilbert. "It was a beautiful play."

Goalie Bernie Parent slid across to protect against Gilbert and Watson pitch-forked the Ranger forward. Still, Gilbert nudged the puck between Parent's legs and the Rangers had won their second overtime game this spring. "It wasn't a good shot," said Gilbert. But for the Rangers, it was good enough.

"It was a crucial game from our standpoint," said Ranger General Manager Coach Emile Francis, who rushed onto the ice with his players to celebrate Gilbert's winning goal. "It was a game we had to win."

For a long while, it looked like a game New York might not win. It was the eighth straight playoff game in which the Rangers surrendered the first goal. Watson, who scored only one goal during the regular season, connected with a long screen shot late in the first period for the Flyers.

Parent made that edge stand up until the final two minutes of the second period when Bobby Rousseau tied it on a power play goal the Flyers aren't sure ever got into their net. "I don't know if it went in or not," said Philadelphia Coach Fred Shero. Rousseau shot from about 50 feet on a New York power play and the puck popped behind Parent before dropping at his feet outside of the goal line. The red light did not go on immediately and the Flyers argued, but only briefly, when it did.

"They say the puck didn't go in on the first goal," said Parent. "I think Gilbert raised his stick and influenced the goal judge."

Until then, Parent had frustrated every Ranger drive. "He was tremendous," said Francis. It looked like we were going to need a Howitzer to put the puck past him."

In the end, it wasn't a howitzer at all, but a rather soft shot by Gilbert that did the trick.

"Just look at what a flick of the wrist did," said Shero sadly.

Elsewhere in the NHL, the Boston Bruins whipped the Chicago Black Hawks 6-2 and gained a 3-2 lead in that semifinal series.

In the World Hockey Association semifinals, the Houston Aeros tripped the Minnesota Fighting Saints 4-1 and evened their series 2-2, and the Chicago Cougars shaded the Toronto Toros 3-2 to move to a 2-1 advantage.

Bruins 6, Black Hawks 2
Bruins left-winger Johnny Bucyk scored one goal in the first period to put Boston ahead 1-0, then hit on a breakaway early in the second period to give the Bruins a 2-0 edge and Phil Esposito and Dallas Smith put the game out of reach with two quick goals.

Cougars 3, Toros 2
Chicago's Rossie Paient turned to pass off twice on what turned out to be his winning goal in the third period, but in steady scored at 1:26 of the third period to tie the game at 2-2 and then sent home the winning goal at 6:42.

Aeros 4, Saints 1
Revisited 46-year-old Gordie Howe, held to one goal in seven previous playoff games, recovered from the flu by scoring the winning goal against Minnesota.

Celtics Clip Bucks, 98-83

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Boston Celtics challenged the Milwaukee Bucks at their strength — superstars — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Oscar Robertson — and lived to tell about it.

Dave Cowens' outside shooting kept the 7-foot-2 Abdul-Jabbar away from the Boston basket Sunday, while pressure team defense wore down Robertson, the Bucks' 35-year-old playmaker. The formula, plus 26 points by old pro John Havlicek, swept the Celtics to a 98-83 victory and a 1-0 lead in the National Basketball Association championship playoffs.

"If we had just let them do what they wanted to, they would have killed us," said Jojo White, who teamed with Don Chaney to apply relentless pressure to Milwaukee's depleted guard corps.

"We wanted to make Oscar handle the ball as much as possible because he gets tired," White said, adding the Bucks can expect more pressure in Game 2 of the best-of-seven series on Tuesday here.

"We're going to press no matter what," he said. "There's nothing they can do about it. They can't hire a helicopter to bring the ball up."

Abdul-Jabbar, the NBA's Most Valuable Player, poured in 35 points and grabbed 14 rebounds. But only two teammates, Bob Dandridge and reserve Mickey Davis, scored in double figures — managing 12 points each.

Dandridge, guarded most of the time by the 34-year-old Havlicek, sank only six of 17 shots and scored only eight points until the final minute. Robertson connected on only two of 13 shots.

Cowens, whose 19 points matched White's total, sank three consecutive baskets midway in the first quarter as the Celtics broke from an 11-11 tie to a permanent lead.

Cowens played much of the time near the top of the key or on the right side in what Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn called the Celtics' no-stop offense. The strategy forced Abdul-Jabbar away from the defensive basket, opening the middle for drives by Havlicek.

"With Kareem, it's a cat-and-mouse game," Havlicek said. "If you have a big guy you try to keep him under the basket. We don't have a big guy, so we try to keep Kareem outside."

The Celtics, fueling their fast break by outbounding the Bucks 46-40, led 35-19 after one period, by 17 points in the second quarter and 67-52 with 5:09 left in the third period.

First PGA Victory For 'Other Miller'

By JOHN SKINNER
AP Sports Writer

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — "Confidence is from ear to ear," said a grinning Allen Miller after nabbing his first Professional Golfers Association tour triumph and an $18,000 check in the Tallahassee Open.

The third-year pro from Pensacola, Fla., leader of the tournament from the start, had three bogeys and a one-over-par 73 Sunday on the 7,124-yard Killdeer Golf and Country Club course.

But he clinched the win with a 20-foot chip shot on the par-5 17th hole which stopped a foot and a half from the cup and resulted in a birdie.

"I really didn't have any shot at all," Miller said. "I just walked up, hit it and hoped I hit it the right way. It's one of the best shots ever hit in my life."

Miller then watched playing partner Joe Inman, a tour rookie, miss an 18-foot birdie putt on the final hole which could have resulted in a sudden death playoff.

Inman's closing 71 tied him with veteran Dan Sikes and Eddie Pearce at 13-under 175, one stroke behind Miller, for $6,960 each.

Inman, 26, of Greensboro, N.C., had lost his temper after chipping out of bounds on the par-4, sixth hole Thursday and it resulted in a triple bogey 7 for the hole.

Pearce, 22, of Tampa, finished with a 69 and figured he cost himself a possible victory when he left his clubs at a friend's home after a Friday night gathering.

He had to borrow some clubs he had never played with before and said it made him conservative.

Miller said he figured victory was "just a matter of time" because of his improved playing recently. He credited Dave Hill and Andy North for working with him and changing his game around.

It's Miller Time

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) —

Johnny Miller wasn't expecting to win the Tournament of Champions. Not after that opening 75. And, as late as the last round he was pulling for Buddy Allin, a onetime teammate at Brigham Young.

"He's a gutsy little guy who's had a lot of problems. A real gentleman. I was pulling for him to win," Miller said, smiling and added: "But I was trying to get in my licks, too."

Miller claimed his fifth pro golf title of the year Sunday at a clutch four-foot par-saving putt on the last hole that let him avoid a sudden-death playoff with Allin and John Mahaffey.

Miller, the U.S. Open champion and the sensation of the tour this season, was the only man in the elite field of 25 tournament winners who broke par in the windy, pressure-packed final round. He had a 69 and a 180 total.

Allin and Mahaffey, now a runner-up three times this season, each had a shot at the top spot until they bogeyed the 72nd hole. They tied for second at 281. Mahaffey with a final 70, Allin with 71.

After the victory, she recalled last week's loss to Joann Prentice on the fourth extra hole for the $32,000 payoff in the Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle Tournament.

"My first reaction afterward was to get to another tournament," said the 28-year-old former school teacher from Highland Park, Fla. "I wanted to hurry up and redeem myself. It really felt good today making those five-foot puts I had been missing."

Miss Blalock led Miss Palmer and Miss Haynie by only one stroke each going into the final round. She stretched her lead to four strokes after the first nine holes Sunday.

The victory was the second of the year for Miss Blalock, who won the Bing Crosby-Mexican Open last month. It boosted her 1974 earnings to $43,395, only $2,295 less than those of Miss Prentice, the LPGA's leading money winner.

Miss Prentice finished in a tie for 10th with a 220.

Miss Blalock, in her sixth year on the tour, moved up from 14th to 12th in the all-time money winning list. She has earned $188,431, putting her ahead of Louise Suggs and Patty Berg, both of whom have played infrequently in recent years.

Donna Caponi Young and Joann Carner each shot 216 to tie for fourth in the $35,000 tournament played on the par 72, 6,067-yard Green Valley Country Club course.

Chako Higuchi Matsui was next with a 217, followed by Debbie Austin and Laura Baugh, each with a 218.

Allin and Mahaffey, now a runner-up three times this season, each had a shot at the top spot until they bogeyed the 72nd hole. They tied for second at 281. Mahaffey with a final 70, Allin with 71.

After the victory, she recalled last week's loss to Joann Prentice on the fourth extra hole for the $32,000 payoff in the Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle Tournament.

Hambletonian Stays in DuQuoin for Three Years

NEW YORK (UPI) — The contract for harness racing's most prestigious race, the Hambletonian Stake for three-year-old trotters, Sunday was awarded to the Du Quoin Illinois State Fair by the majority of the directors of the Hambletonian Society after a special meeting.

The contract, to be finalized in the near future, is for a period of three years.

The announcement was made by Mac C. Hempt, president of the Hambletonian Society, the group which controls the site and administration of the stake.

Du Quoin, through its president W. R. Hayes II, offered to add $125,000 to the purse, commencing in 1975, guaranteeing a total purse of $200,000.

The Du Quoin racing association also guaranteed $25,000 for the companion Hambletonian Filly Stake.

There were four bids officially considered: the New York State Fair at Syracuse, the Ohio Valley Harness Racing Association at Latonia Racetrack in Florence, Ky. and Saratoga Harness Raceway in Saratoga Springs, N.Y.

There was a technicality on Arlington Park - Washington Race Association, which bid for the Hambletonian for Washington Park in Chicago. Mr. Hempt explained that the society could not accept the bid because the by-laws require a bid to be presented at least one year in advance of rewarding new dates.

John F. Loone, president of Arlington Park - Washington Park said, "If we could not get the race for Arlington Park we were delighted it was awarded to DuQuoin. We pledge them any assistance they might require and our complete cooperation."

In Albany, Frank Walkley, state commissioner of agriculture and markets, the agency which runs the state fair, said, "I'm disappointed — what else can you say? We had some people who were working very hard on it, and we thought we had a chance to get it for the fairgrounds, where the Hambletonian originated."

Walkley said it was "too early to decide" if the state would try again for the prestigious race after its new, 3-year contract expires.

"It all depends on how well they do in Illinois and what other undertakings we do at the fairgrounds. We do have some racing at the fair now and we're interested in developing further activity there."

Ernest B. Morris, president of the Saratoga track, attended the meeting to present his track's proposal to the offer.

"We're sorry about it (the DuQuoin selection), of course, but the majority rules and there's not too much we can do about it," he said.

Morris said the 20-member Hambletonian Society came from all over the country, but had a large number of members from the Midwest, giving the edge, he said, to the Illinois facility.

The Saratoga offer, Morris said, was the same as last summer, when the Society met to first consider a new contract for the race. Morris said he was adding $75,000 to the stakes, and guaranteed a minimum purse of $150,000.

Asked why he wanted the race back East, Morris said, "It's buried out there in the Middle West from the standpoint of coverage by radio, television and the press."

He added that while DuQuoin was a good facility, eastern tracks were closer to mass transit and had more overnight accommodations, which could boost public exposure to the event.

Cale, Mario — Different Paths

Mario Andretti went far afield to win only his third race since 1969. Cale Yarborough stayed home and topped his fourth of the season.

Ron Keselowski hiked off into the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania to capture the first major triumph of a five-year career. And it all happened during the weekend.

Ron who? Keselowski, from Pontiac, Mich. He's a short, stockily-built driver who learned big speedway driving in four years of also-ran competition on big Southern ovals. He drove a Dodge to a $10,000 triumph in a 500-mile race for United States Auto Club stock cars at Pocono International Raceway, putting down such stalwarts as Buddy Baker, Wally Dallenbach, Butch Hartman and Norm Nelson.

Not only that, he did it by driving without brakes the last 250 miles and praying that he wouldn't wreck.

"I almost cried like a baby near the end, knowing I might win it but knowing also that the car might break at anytime," Keselowski said. "It had never held together that well before."

Keselowski had been among the front runners from the start, but his victory was made easier when leader Hartman, the three-time USAC stock car champ, fell out with less than 10 miles to go.

Nelson, also a former USAC champ, finished second in a Plymouth, while third through fifth place went to Hartman in a Dodge, Mickey Flora in a Dodge and Elmo Langley in a Ford.

Keselowski's average speed for the 500 miles was 130.596 miles per hour.

Andretti, who won only once last year and once in 1971, teamed with Italian Arturo Merzario to bring an Alfa Romeo home first in a 1,000-kilometer event at Monza, Italy.

The two posted an overall speed of 131 m.p.h. as Alfes driven by Belgium's Jacky Ickx and Rolf Stommelin of Germany and Italy's Andrea de Adamich and Carlo Facetti claimed the runner-up spots.

Andretti, perhaps America's best distance driver, will debut a Formula 1 Parnelli car in September, aiming at a three-year program to win the world Grand Prix driving championship.

At Madrid, Nicky Lauda of Austria won the rain-shortened Spanish Grand Prix. He beat Ferrari teammate Clay Regazzoni by 36 seconds in the 177.7 mile race.

Lauda's time was 2:29.57. Third place went to Emerson Fittipaldi, followed by Hans Stuck, Jody Scheckter and Denis Hulme.

And Yarborough probably had the weekend's hardest chore. He drove a Chevrolet 450 gruelling laps around the half-mile Martinsville, Va. Speedway, with doggedly-determined Richard Petty on his heels.

"It was the hardest afternoon's work I have done since I used to plow cotton in South Carolina," the 200-pound, 5-foot-10 Yarborough said.

But it was worth it. Yarborough collected $18,000 for his 225-mile trip—the Virginia 500 is the richest short track event in the country.

UNIROYAL STEEL-BELTED RADIALS CAN HELP YOU CUT FUEL CONSUMPTION

You've seen it on television, now prove it for yourself. Uni, Roy and Al dramatized the gas-saving advantages of UNIROYAL steel-belted radials by leaping over 40 gas pumps. And tests on the UNIROYAL test track at Laredo, Texas have shown that Zeta 40M steel-belted radials get better gas mileage than bias-ply tires on the same car.

Add the other advantages of steel-belted radials like their ride and handling characteristics, their improved traction and their longer life, and you get a tire that saves both energy and money. UNIROYAL Zeta 40M ... the 40,000-mile tire that also saves gas.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

OVER QUICK: (Comment) I really feel sorry for the girl in Texas who's been grounded. Last year, Mom decided I was too old to be spanked anymore, and now I lose my evenings and weekends instead.

All my friends know when I'm being punished. It's humiliating and the wait until it's over is awful. I would gladly go back to getting the hair brush. It was over quick, and no one ever knew except Mom and me.—For Padding in Pennsylvania.

(A.) Your letter is proof that grounding really hurts a teenager. That is one reason so many parents use it for discipline. It works.

Think about this: You'd be grounded less often if you didn't break so many of your parents' rules.

NO JOB: (Q.) My sister is 21 years old and doesn't have a job. My parents keep telling her to find one, but she just loaf around the house.

She went to airline school but couldn't find a job with an airline.

Do you think I should tell her? And if so what should I tell her? I am 14.—Concerned in Connecticut.

(A.) Many young people are jobless today.

Be sympathetic with your sister and as cheerful as you can about her situation. But realize at the time that the problem is hers and your parents. Let them work it out.

'Adverse Inference' Cited As Latest Threat to Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Judiciary Committee began its inquiry into President Nixon's official conduct last year, chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., set April 30 as a target date for a vote on whether to recommend impeachment.

When the unmet deadline arrives Tuesday, the 38-member panel will have to decide not only how and when to conduct the unfinished business, but how to deal with President Nixon's expected refusal to furnish 42 tapes of Watergate-related conversations.

They are due under terms of a subpoena 30 minutes before the meeting begins.

But committee sources say rather than citing Nixon for contempt of Congress if he fails to deliver the tapes, the panel might apply the legal principle of "adverse inference," meaning Nixon could be considered guilty of charges covered by the withheld evidence.

Former Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson, who resigned last fall rather than fire former Watergate Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox, cited the principle and said Sunday it would not be enough for Nixon to supply only edited transcripts of the tapes.

Richardson, interviewed on NBC's Meet the Press, also said there was not enough evidence to prove Nixon guilty in any one of the scandal-related areas, "but the cumulative pattern of these things surrounding the President... creates a really troublesome question as to the degree to which one can infer his responsibility."

If the committee subscribes to the "adverse inference" theory, which has precedent in federal courts, the sources said, Nixon's refusal to comply with the subpoena could be an impeachable offense in itself.

Rodino has said he would not press for a contempt citation and has indicated he favors the "adverse inference" recourse.

Committee lawyers says the tactic cannot be used against a defendant who pleads the Fifth Amendment — refusing to testify on grounds of self-incrimination — but they said no one expects Nixon to use such a defense.

Judiciary Committee members Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., however, indicated Sunday he favors a contempt citation if necessary.

"If he refuses to obey the subpoena the only remedy is to go to the House and have him cited for contempt," Rangel said.

Mitchell - Stans Verdict Puts Dean on the Hook

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The acquittal of John Mitchell and Maurice Stans on conspiracy and perjury charges Sunday takes the two former Cabinet members off the hook. But at the same time it puts John W. Dean II on the spot and his credibility in question.

Dean, President Nixon's former counsel and since last summer his chief accuser in the Watergate scandal, was a government witness against Mitchell and Stans, who were involved in allegations of selling favors for political contributions.

Dean shocked the nation during the Senate Watergate hearings with his dry, measured accusation that Nixon fully was aware of the Watergate cover-up and actively participated in it. He has pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy for participating in the cover-up.

At the Mitchell-Stans trial in a New York federal court, Dean testified that he spoke 19 times to Mitchell about the problems financier Robert Vesco was having with the Securities and Exchange Commission — the basis of a major perjury count against Mitchell, since Mitchell denied this.

The jury concluded that the government did not prove its case beyond a reasonable doubt, which means there was some doubt over the testimony of prosecution witnesses, including Dean's.

Sybil A. Kucharski, the jury forewoman, explained, "We had a reasonable doubt because of these witnesses and because we didn't feel the evidence was substantiated."

Asked specifically about Dean, she said, "Not only Mr. Dean but Mr. G. Bradford Cook and Mr. Harry L. Sears admitted perjury. We took all of this into consideration. As for Dean, he admitted guilt, possibly looking for favor."

The acquittal barely had been announced when a White House official, who would not allow himself to be identified, said of Dean, "The jury's verdict by implication makes him a liar, which makes one wonder how many other lies he's told."

Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., president pro tempore of the Senate and chairman of its Judiciary Committee, agreed: "The jury in the Mitchell-Stans trial has passed on the testimony of John Dean. It did not believe him. It is interesting to note that the main accuser of John Mitchell and Maurice Stans is also the President's main accuser."

Senate Watergate Committee Vice Chairman Howard Baker, R-Tenn., said the Mitchell-Stans case has no bearing on the committee's work or Dean's testimony.

"I suppose it will have some bearing on the general public perception of the Dean testimony, since it was a keystone part of the Mitchell and Stans prosecution," Baker told CBS. "But I don't think it will have a determining effect in the committee's deliberation."

Probe Murder of Army Private

FT. DIX, N.J. (UPI)—A team of military and FBI investigators today will continue sifting through evidence surrounding the murder of one Army private and the stabbing of another by three men who met them at the base gate outside Wrightstown, N.J., Sunday.

A base spokesman said more than 30 Army Criminal Investigation Division and FBI agents have been assigned to investigate the death of Pvt. Lonnie F. Eaton, 18, of Greensboro, N.C., and the multiple stabbing of Pvt. Thomas E. White, 22, of Buffalo, N.Y.

Sgt. Alexander Q. Looper said the two victims were approached at about 2:45 a.m. by an individual who said he wanted to buy some marijuana. When the soldiers said they didn't have any, two more men emerged "from the darkness" and a fight began.

Eaton was stabbed with a knife or straight edge razor in the stomach, chest and shoulders. White also suffered multiple slashes and cuts and was listed in fair condition at a base hospital following surgery.

The suspects were wearing blue jeans. One wore a blue jean jacket, another had a brown vinyl jacket and the third wore a brown and red sweater, Looper said.

Senate to Vote on Proposal For Price Control Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anti-inflation legislation authorizing another year of life for wage-price controls is being introduced in the Senate today over the opposition of big business and labor.

A Senate vote on the bill is expected later in the week. The bill's provisions would be retroactive to May 1; current wage-price-control authority expires April 30—Tuesday night.

Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine and J. Bennett Johnston, D-La., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., say it was fear of worsening inflation that prompted them to offer the bill to extend wage-price control authority for another year.

The measure sponsored by Muskie, Stevenson, Javits and 10 others would authorize the President to reimpose wage-price controls on any segment of the economy that presented a danger of serious inflation.

The Senate Democratic Caucus has urged action to retain control authority but the bill still faces a stiff fight on the Senate floor. Even if the Senate passes the bill, the House would be expected to require at least a few weeks before acting.

The Senate planned to continue debate today on a bill re-

Good News for Food Buyers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Butz told a news conference said beef and pork production last week, however, that consumers already have seen two-thirds of this year's food price increase occur. Prices are expected to go up "a bit more," he said, but not at the rate of recent months.

Butz said he thought an earlier report said, "Early March can't predict by his department that 1974 grocery store food prices most likely would go up 12 per cent from last year's average still was valid. The 1973 increase was 16 per cent from the previous 12-month average."

The alert report, distributed to large-volume food buyers such as hotels and restaurants, the report said.

Dairy products generally are expected to be ample, but non-broiler fat dry milk may continue to be "fairly tight" next month, the report said.

"Dry bean and split pea supplies, in general, are in adequate because of strong demand and less output in 1973 than in 1972," the report said, but added: "May supplies of lentils for all uses are highest in four years for the month."

Potatoes, which have soared to record prices the past season, will continue to be "lighter than normal" in store supplies, the report said.

Defense against inflation

The revolutionary bank thinks you should have a hedge against inflation. A guaranteed chance to let your money earn more money. That's why we are offering certificates of deposit that pay you a generous 7.25 percent per year compounded daily. That gives you an annual yield of 7.63 percent.

These certificates may be purchased at any Marine Midland banking office. You can purchase these certificates for as little as $1000. You are then free to choose your own maturity date, but your funds must remain on deposit 4 to 7 years. And even if current interest rates drop during that time, we pledge to continue paying that 7.25 percent interest. Compounded every day. For as long as you have chosen.

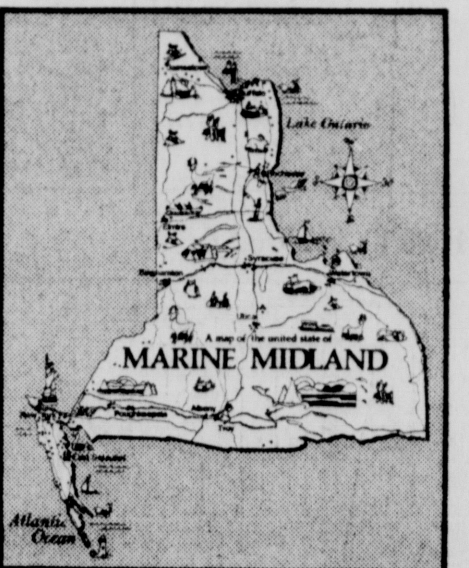

Interested citizens should note that Federal regulations prohibit the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity, unless 3 months of the interest thereon is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the lowest savings account rate. So, to avoid being shackled in time of dire emergency, we urge you to be discreet in depositing only those cash reserves which you can spare over an extended period of time.

In addition, citizens of the united state of Marine Midland, be assured that alternative savings plans are available, for large and small deposits. Long term and short term.

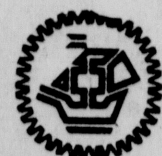

Resolve now to fight inflation with a 7.25 percent certificate yielding you a 7.63 percent return every year.

We provide guards for your future security.

YOU HAVE A RIGHT TO BE HEARD!

And we want to hear from you! In fact, we feel so strongly about this that 25 years ago we put our commitment into action.

How? By giving you the means - a pre-addressed postpaid suggestion form in every Grand Union store. And most important - we've backed it up with a system that handles your problem and gets the word to the key people in our company, if changes are required.

Of course, the first and best place to solve any problem is in the store with the store manager. If you are still not satisfied, then we want to know. Not every problem or question is store caused or solved.

WHAT IS UNIT PRICING?

Unit pricing helps you make PRICE COMPARISONS of different sizes and brands among many items in our stores. For instance, with unit pricing you can compare the price per quart of all sizes and brands of products and see which sizes and brands are the best for you in terms of price.

HOW TO USE THE UNIT PRICE TICKET

Unit pricing is for you. We want you to know at a glance the price per pound, per quart, per count, per sq. ft. of the item. The unit price will help you compare prices of a product in different sizes or brands. Unit price will not tell you the quality of the item. Remember, the price you pay is printed in the yellow section of the shelf ticket.
